

The Friends of Sandall Park are committed to making improvements to the park for the benefit of everyone. That means its human visitors, bird visitors and resident wildlife.

Together with the council and park wardens, plans are underway to make the park a pleasant and attractive place for family leisure time.

You can play your part in this by:

- ⇒ Cleaning up after your dog.
- ⇒ Putting your litter in a bin or taking it home.
- ⇒ Respecting the wildlife.
- ⇒ Respecting other visitors to the park.
- ⇒ Most of all – Enjoying your visit!

This cottage was in Sandall Park, just about where the present café stands now. Seen with her family is Florence Frost, who lived in the cottages until they were demolished in 1956. Tea and light refreshments were sold from the back room to the anglers who came to fish in the lakes.

William Frost, who lived in cottages in Sandall Park, taking his produce to Doncaster Market.

William grew vegetables on land where the pensioners bungalows are now, opposite the boating lake on Thorne Road. He also used to sell them on a stall outside the park.

Boating Lake Alphabet Trail

Boating Lake
Alphabet Trail

What does Sandall Park, or the Boating Lake as most of us call it, mean to you? Does it have special memories for you? Are there things you would like to see in the park, or events that you would like to take part in?

Well now is your chance to take a look around, and tell us what you think. The alphabet should be an A – Z list of things to do with the Boating Lake that you think are important. It might be things from the past or what could be in the future. Is there something you like about the park, or something you would like to see improved? It's your ideas we want.

Put your suggestions into our Alphabet Trail, the main words of your ideas beginning with each letter of the alphabet, until you have completed all 26.

The completed forms handed in will be looked at by the members of Friends of Sandall Park, and the ones judged to be most imaginative, creative or well thought out will receive a prize. Don't forget to fill in your name and address though!
